Teaching Artist Review

About the Artist

A native of New Orleans, Amauunet Ashe is a storyteller, dancer, author and emergent literacy arts instructor. She inspires students to have fun expressing themselves with each reading experience. Teaching creative body movements that excite the minds and hearts of children and adults, she is both entertainer and teacher. Amauunet has also been trained through the Wolf Trap Institute for Early Learning. Wolf Trap teaching artists partner with teachers and caregivers of children ages birth to six-years-old to improve learning through the performing arts: using music, dance, drama and puppetry to bring literacy and math concepts to life!
