Teaching Artist Review

Jingo's presentation was extremely engaging and shared a positive message: Big tasks can be broken down into tiny manageable pieces. My students really enjoyed his art work and were excited to give his style of art a try. He also made connections to grammar and writing that related well to my students learning. -Gayal Jones, ELL Teacher Clinton Young Elementary

Program Description

Students will learn many of the components of creating a graphic novel including story and character creation, panels, perspective and speech. Students will take stories they know or a topic chosen by the teacher and create several pages of a graphic novel either in small groups or independently.
